Did an honest self-assessment of skills, and adjusted what I was doing and how I was doing it (example - started my Writing sequence again, so I am more prepared for other classes).
Readjusted my course load to fit well with the time and energy I have available due to my various responsibilities.
Had a clear career and academic goal, and consistently worked toward that goal. Broke larger goals into smaller ones.
Met with my Academic Advisor to develop a realistic term-by-term academic plan.
Developed relationships with instructors, tutors, classmates.
Attended all classes on time.
Managed my time well, setting aside 2-3 hours outside of class for every hour in class.
Looked for encouragement and assistance from others.
Engaged inside and outside of classes, and used campus resources regularly.
Got organized, used a planner, made to-do lists, kept school work in system.
Showed persistence, and kept on trying even when I was frustrated.
Noticed my small successes, and celebrated them to build my confidence.
Determined to succeed, and used all resources at my disposal to help me do that.
Communicated well with instructors, tutors, advisors, and clearly asked for what I needed.
Followed through on my commitments.
Took good care of myself, got enough sleep, ate well, exercised, and used my support systems.
